

How a Hox Swells.—Not like a horse or a man, but through his foot legs. There is a spot on each leg just below the knee, in the form of a sleeve. Through that the sweat passes off; and it is necessary that it be kept open. If it gets closed, as is sometimes the case, the leg will get sick; he will appear stiff and cramped, and unless he gets relief, it will go hard with him. To cure him simply opens the pores. This is done by raising the spot with a corn-cob, and washing with warm water.—Bard's World.

LETTER FROM A FASHIONABLE YOUNG LADY TO A FRIEND.—A young lady who is well up in the fashions, if not in letters, lately addressed a note to a friend. The note was dropped in the street, picked up, and the following extracted:

"As for the loveliness the lower it is the more fashionable you are and the less close you were the more you are dressed. Miss Goose gave me a blue silk of hers and he cut its neck off as Susan Simpson cut off hers, and we attract a great deal of attention to our necks promenading in the streets like other ladies and holding up our close. Nobody but us who doesn't hold up her close and the hire you hold up the more you are that of."

An old gentleman living in the interior of Mississippi, some years ago, sent his son to New Orleans, to accept a mercantile situation offered him. He was a youth of high moral character, and his father took great pains to acquaint him with the fact that vice in its most attractive garb, would surround him constantly. "But," said he, "remember, my son, that your religion will carry you through safely. Only resist the temptation to do wrong, and you will not fail to reach heaven at last; and the man who goes to heaven by way of New Orleans deserves the highest reward of the righteous."

The following is a list of "commemorative weddings": Two years after the wedding is the "paper wedding"; the fifth anniversary is "wooden wedding"; the tenth the "tin wedding"; the fifteenth the "crystal wedding"; the twentieth the "copper wedding"; the twenty-fifth the "silver wedding"; the fiftieth the "golden wedding"; the seventy-fifth the "diamond wedding."

"A good-looking, intelligent, well-dressed, tidy and prepossessing white girl," of Ohio, has married a big Sambo, about seven degrees blacker than a bucket of coal tar. Mated down.

Two colors make at once.

A countryman, not long ago, on his first sight of a locomotive, declared that he thought it was the devil on wheels. "Faith an' ye worse than myself," said an Irishman bystander, "for the first time I ever saw the crayther, I tho't it was a sthame boat hunting for wather."

"Dear me, how duidly he talks?" said Mrs. Partington, recently at a temperance meeting. "I am always rejoiced when he mounts the nostril, for his eloquence warms in every cartridge of my body."

A sermon in four words—"Shrouds have no pockets."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PROF. DE VAUX'S ORIENTAL FRAGRANCE.

Perfume of Love.

This celebrated Perfume, which of late commands the highest price in the world, possesses a flavor unequalled by any other. It is made from plants known to the ancients and heroes of the East, who, in their day, were known to create Love, and greatly increase the ardor of their passions, preserving a sentiment of mutual love, and a desire to please. This virtue, resembling the fragrance invaluable to persons who feel the absence or loss of the affections of others, who are their friends, or who are loved, is of great value in the cure of those diseases, it is intended to affect, thus promoting marriage and rendering conjugal a cordial balm.

It awakens the sluggish love, quickens the unfeeling friend, removes the hardness of the maiden, develops the heart-feelings, equalizes love, makes the rough and the gentle, the bold and the timid, the strong and the little. To those who fear or feel their husband's love, it commends itself around all words.

To loves, without whom we are born, it gives a new ardor, and to those who are dead, its effects are irresistible. To those who mourn an absent one, it aroma comes like a soothing balm. No wife, no life so closely, no joy so sweet, will be able to sustain, as not to acknowledge the sanctity of its presence.

As a perfume the PHAGANTHON not only strengthens the body, but also the mind, and withstands the action of the atmosphere. The aroma is delicate, and exalts the spirits. Constantly bestowing its sweetness, it is invincible, and generally invincible.

With this celebrated article as a helper, no young lady or gentlewoman need fear in single matrimony, for she will be sure to find a mate.

This article is well worth the price as a perfume alone. Price per bottle, $1. Four bottles sent by mail or express, prepaid cost of $5.
